

Cardinal Gas Storage Partners Announces Engineering and Operations Management Change

HOUSTON, May 30, 2013 -- Cardinal Gas Storage Partners LLC ("Cardinal") announces that effective June 1, Paul Lanham, Senior VP of Engineering and Operations has elected to retire and that Paul is being replaced by Bobby Raines. Since joining Cardinal in 2010, Paul has been instrumental in leading the engineering and construction of the Cardinal storage facilities. This year Cardinal has placed two additional storage facilities into service and will add capacity at a third facility. These additions will increase total working gas capacity at the three facilities to over 50 MMDth.

"The recently announced completion of Cadeville and Perryville, having placed both facilities in service on schedule and under budget, successfully concludes Paul's engagement." said Jeff Ballew, President and CEO of Cardinal. "Bobby Raines is our chosen successor as we transition from a construction company to an operating company. We thank Paul for his leadership and service and we are looking forward to continued success with Bobby Raines as Senior VP Engineering and Operations."

Cardinal has been working with Bobby and ALTEC Environmental Consulting, LLC, an environmental and project management firm that Bobby co-owned from 1999 - 2010. He brings 30 years of oil and gas well work, permitting, regulatory and gas storage development experience to his new position. Bobby is a Registered Professional Geologist in four states and is also a member of the Board of the Louisiana Oil and Gas Association.
